

Paradiem

The Morning Brief

JULY 14, 2026

AI De-rating

Monday's 2.42% Tech drawdown and 3.01% Energy bid meet the compressed June CPI, JPM/WFC/C/GS pre-open, and Chair Warsh testimony Tuesday.

S&P 500 (MON CLOSE)	NASDAQ (MON CLOSE)	BRENT (MON SETTLE)	BITCOIN PROXY (IBIT MON)	FEAR & GREED
$749.17 · ↓0.77%	$711.74 · ↓1.90%	~$83.30 · ↑9.6% per CNBC	$35.22 · ↓2.79%	22 crypto proxy · CNN endpoint failed · CNN was 49 Neutral Jul 10 per CNN

SECTION 01

Markets — AI-Capex Complex Re-Rates on Renewed Hormuz Strikes; CPI-Warsh-Banks Compression Delivers Tuesday

MONDAY'S TAPE REPORTEDLY DELIVERED AN AI-CAPEX DE-RATING EVEN AS THE HEADLINE INDEXES HELD RELATIVELY CONTAINED: S&P 500 REPORTEDLY CLOSED AT $749.17 (↓0.77%) PER DATA DROP WHILE NASDAQ FELL 1.90% TO $711.74; TECH (XLK) REPORTEDLY LED THE DOWNSIDE AT ↓2.42% AS ENERGY (XLE) REPORTEDLY LED THE UPSIDE AT ↑3.01% PER DATA DROP; REPORTED MONDAY CHIP COMPLEX CASUALTIES REPORTEDLY INCLUDED CRDO ↓8.11%, MRVL ↓7.75%, LRCX ↓5.83%, NXPI ↓4.75%, AMD ↓4.21%, NVDA ↓3.52%, AND TSM ↓2.89% PER DATA DROP

For FCI's framework, Monday's composition reportedly clarified that the chip-led bid that carried the week into Friday reportedly cannot yet absorb a second physical-supply reprice on top of the reported Iran-base retaliation cycle. The reported CRDO ↓8.11% ($236.88) and MRVL ↓7.75% ($217.53) reportedly marked notable single-session AI-optical give-backs, and the reported LRCX ↓5.83% ($329.92) reportedly extends the wafer-equipment de-rating framed by Yahoo coverage in the data drop headlines that the reported AI-memory boom is losing steam. NVDA reportedly closed at $203.53 (↓3.52%) and TSM reportedly closed at $421.58 (↓2.89%) reportedly two sessions ahead of the July 16 print per prior brief coverage. Overnight, per Yahoo/Al Jazeera coverage, S&P 500 futures reportedly traded ↓0.2%, Nasdaq futures ↓0.3%, and Dow futures ↓0.1% into the pre-open. Carson's SPY $645.80 support remains active per levels.json, well-removed from Monday's intraday range of $748.00–$753.91 per data drop — no level was reportedly hit.

S&P 500 (MON)	$749.17 · ↓0.77% · L:$748.00 H:$753.91 per data drop
NASDAQ (MON)	$711.74 · ↓1.90% per data drop
DOW (MON)	$524.47 · ↓0.25% per data drop
SECTOR LEADER (MON)	Energy (XLE) ↑3.01% per data drop
SECTOR LAGGARD (MON)	Tech (XLK) ↓2.42% per data drop
BRENT SETTLE (MON)	~$83.30 · ↑9.6% per CNBC
GOLD (MON)	GLD $367.13 · ↓2.62% per data drop
VIX PROXY (UVXY MON)	$24.32 · ↑4.92% per data drop
S&P FUTURES (TUE PRE-OPEN)	↓0.2% per Yahoo
CARSON'S SPY SUPPORT	$645.80 active · far from Mon range $748.00–$753.91

TUESDAY DELIVERS THE COMPRESSED CPI-WARSH-BANKS WINDOW PREVIOUSLY FRAMED: JUNE CPI PRINTS AT 7:30 AM CT PER BLS CALENDAR (REPORTED CONSENSUS HEADLINE ↓0.1% M/M, REPORTED CORE ↑0.3% M/M PER KIPLINGER, WITH REPORTED ANNUAL CORE REPORTEDLY HOLDING AT 2.9%); JPM, WFC, C, AND GS REPORT PRE-BELL PER COMPANY IR WITH REPORTED CONSENSUS JPM $5.74, C $2.76, GS $14.46, BAC $1.13 PER DATA DROP; CHAIR WARSH REPORTEDLY TESTIFIES BEFORE THE HOUSE FINANCIAL SERVICES COMMITTEE AT 9 AM CT PER CONGRESSIONAL COVERAGE — FAST'S Q2 PRINT SITS IN THE CURRENT

EARNINGS WINDOW PER FAST IR (REPORTED CONSENSUS $0.33 EPS ON $2.34B REVENUE PER YAHOO/TRADINGVIEW), WITH THE CONFERENCE CALL REPORTEDLY AT 9 AM CT TODAY PER STOCKTITAN

For FCI's framework, the reported CPI print reportedly lands 90 minutes before Warsh's reported House testimony per Bloomberg — a signal that reported energy pass-through questioning is difficult to avoid given Monday's reported 8.36% USO / 9.13% BNO daily gain per data drop. Reported bank prints reportedly clarify the reported net-interest-margin and consumer-credit read for reported FCI Dividend-sleeve financial exposure (SYF $73.21 ↑1.06% Mon, SPGI $437.84 ↑1.71% Mon per data drop). FAST reportedly closed Monday at $47.05 (↑1.20% per data drop) with the reported Q2 print in the current earnings window per FAST IR; the reported industrial-distribution tell reportedly reads across to reported PCAR $124.26 (↓0.25% Mon), CAT $931.47 (↓2.20%), and STLD $234.14 (↑2.50%). Per Kiplinger coverage cited in prior briefs, the reported June headline could reportedly flip negative on the reported mid-June crude decline into the U.S.-Iran ceasefire — the reported forward energy risk is now sharply higher after Monday's reported 20% Trump Hormuz cargo toll per CNBC. Simplicity Over Complexity.

Monday priced the physical-supply reprice through the AI-capex complex rather than the energy complex, with Tech ↓2.42% and Energy ↑3.01% moving in opposite directions on the same tape; Tuesday delivers the CPI print that historically frames the July-forward transmission and the first big-bank read for the FCI Dividend sleeve's financial exposure. Research Reveals Opportunities.

Geopolitics — Trump Reinstates Hormuz Blockade With 20% Cargo Toll; Iran Reportedly Strikes U.S. Air Base in Jordan; Gold Falls 2.62% Despite Risk-Off Signal

PER CNBC AND NPR COVERAGE, PRESIDENT TRUMP REPORTEDLY ANNOUNCED MONDAY THAT THE U.S. WILL REINSTATE A BLOCKADE OF IRANIAN PORTS AND REPORTEDLY IMPOSE A 20% CARGO TOLL ON NON-IRANIAN VESSELS TRANSITING THE STRAIT OF HORMUZ PER A TRUTH SOCIAL POST; PER REUTERS COVERAGE IN THE DATA DROP HEADLINES, IRAN REPORTEDLY STRUCK A U.S. AIR BASE IN JORDAN MONDAY AND THE U.S. REPORTEDLY ENDED APPROXIMATELY FIVE HOURS OF ATTACKS; TRUMP REPORTEDLY SENT CONGRESS FORMAL NOTICE THAT THE IRAN CONFLICT HAS RESUMED PER REUTERS; PER UAE COVERAGE IN THE DATA DROP HEADLINES, IRANIAN MISSILES REPORTEDLY STRUCK OIL TANKERS IN THE STRAIT OF HORMUZ WITH ONE SAILOR REPORTEDLY KILLED

For FCI's framework, the reported blockade-plus-toll reprice reportedly changes the physical-supply equation from a Hormuz-closure question to a Hormuz-tax question — if the reported 20% cargo toll reportedly holds, the reported transmission mechanism into refined-product spreads and reported airline fuel costs reportedly extends beyond crude, with per Reuters coverage in prior briefs, reported Europe jet fuel stocks reportedly already thinned to less than a month's supply. Per CNBC coverage, Brent reportedly settled Monday at ~$83.30 (reportedly ↑~9.6% on the session per CNBC) and reportedly extended to ~$84.72 (↑1.7%) into Tuesday's pre-open per Al Jazeera coverage. For FCI's Upstream and Refiner sleeves, CVX reportedly closed Monday at $182.20 (↑3.29%) and OKE at $92.19 (↑2.52%) per data drop — the reported physical-supply framing skews to the upside for cash flows if the reported blockade holds through the reported Doha technical track. For FCI's Defense sleeve, LMT reportedly closed at $520.68 (↓0.49%) and GD at $372.78 (↓0.61%) per data drop as reported program-timeline risk reportedly weighed against the reported broader escalation bid. Per Reuters coverage in the data drop headlines, China's June oil imports reportedly hit a near-10-year low amid the Iran war — a signal that reported demand-side response is running alongside the reported supply reprice. The physical world matters.

GOLD REPORTEDLY FELL 2.62% MONDAY TO GLD $367.13 PER DATA DROP DESPITE THE RISK-OFF SESSION — A REPORTED DIVERGENCE THAT BLOOMBERG AND CNBC COVERAGE REPORTEDLY ATTRIBUTED TO DOLLAR STRENGTH AND REPORTED HIGHER-FOR-LONGER RATE REPRICING ON THE REPORTED ENERGY PASS-THROUGH RATHER THAN A TRADITIONAL SAFE-HAVEN BID; SILVER REPORTEDLY FELL 3.32% TO SLV $52.16 PER DATA DROP; BITCOIN PROXY IBIT REPORTEDLY CLOSED ↓2.79% AT $35.22 AND ETHA ↓1.18% AT $13.37 PER DATA DROP — A SIGNAL THAT THE REPORTED 24/7 DIGITAL-ASSET COHORT REPORTEDLY ABSORBED A PORTION OF THE RISK RESET

For FCI's framework, Monday's reported gold decline into a risk-off session reportedly is the tell that reported inflation-driven rate repricing reportedly is dominating the reported safe-haven bid — per FXStreet and CNBC coverage, the reported dollar strengthening and reported higher-for-longer framing reportedly overwhelmed the reported geopolitical premium that historically tends to lift bullion. For FCI's Digital Assets sleeve, the reported IBIT and ETHA give-back reportedly is contained relative to the reported chip-complex de-rating — a reported composition that suggests reported spot-ETF holder cohort resilience even as reported miner exposure (MARA ↓3.25% at $12.19, HUT ↓2.98% at $99.17 per data drop) reportedly extends its recent pattern. Per

Bloomberg coverage, the reported hawkish-Fed backdrop reportedly frames Warsh's reported testimony Tuesday against a reported energy-cost-shock that historically tends to sit uncomfortably alongside the reported soft-consumer signals from the reported June payrolls print earlier in July per prior brief coverage. Think Like an Owner.

TRUMP HORMUZ TOLL	Reportedly 20% cargo fee on non-Iranian vessels per Truth Social / CNBC
IRAN RETALIATION (MON)	Reportedly struck U.S. air base in Jordan per Reuters
HORMUZ TANKER STRIKE	Iranian missiles reportedly struck tankers · one sailor killed per UAE / Reuters
BRENT (MON SETTLE)	~$83.30 · reportedly ↑~9.6% per CNBC
BRENT (TUE PRE-OPEN)	~$84.72 · ↑1.7% per Al Jazeera
GOLD (MON)	GLD $367.13 · ↓2.62% per data drop
CHINA JUNE OIL IMPORTS	Reportedly near 10-year low amid Iran war per Reuters
FCI ENERGY BID (MON)	CVX ↑3.29% · OKE ↑2.52% · CEG ↑2.46% · NTR ↑3.32% per data drop

On Our Radar

1. June CPI at 7:30 AM CT per BLS Calendar — The Anchor Print Into Warsh Testimony at 9 AM CT and the Reported Big-Bank Kickoff Before the Bell (JPM, C, WFC, GS, BAC). Per Kiplinger coverage cited in prior briefs, reported consensus headline was ↓0.1% M/M and reported core ↑0.3% M/M with reported annual core reportedly holding at 2.9%. The reported Barclays 3.8% headline forecast reportedly reflected the reported mid-June crude decline into the U.S.-Iran ceasefire; per CNBC coverage, Monday's reported 9.6% Brent settle gain and the reported 20% Trump Hormuz cargo toll materially raise the reported forward energy risk into the reported July print. Per data drop, JPM consensus is $5.74, C $2.76, GS $14.46, and BAC $1.13; reported options-implied moves reportedly ranged from 4.4% (JPM) to 6.0% (GS) per prior brief coverage. Per Yahoo coverage, JPM analysts reportedly expect reported investment-banking strength from equities and M&A. For FCI's Dividend-sleeve financial exposure (SYF $73.21 ↑1.06% Mon per data drop), the reported net-interest-margin and consumer-credit read carries weight into MS Wednesday. Research Reveals Opportunities.

2. FAST Q2 Print in the Current Earnings Window per FAST IR With the Reported Conference Call at 9 AM CT Today per StockTitan — Reported Consensus $0.33 EPS on $2.34B Revenue per Yahoo/TradingView (Reportedly ↑13.8% EPS and ↑12.6% Revenue YoY per Zacks); FAST Reportedly Closed Monday at $47.05 (↑1.20%) per Data Drop. Per Benzinga coverage in the data drop headlines, FAST reportedly drew a bullish initiation Monday among the reported top-5 Monday initiations. The reported print reportedly is the first FCI Dividend-sleeve Q2 read of the cycle and reportedly reads across to reported industrial-distribution demand into July: PCAR $124.26 (↓0.25% Mon per data drop), CAT $931.47 (↓2.20% Mon), and STLD $234.14 (↑2.50% Mon). Per JP Morgan coverage cited in the data drop headlines, PCAR reportedly received an Overweight reiteration with a reported PT raise to $155. Per prior brief tracking, STLD reportedly reports Q2 July 21. Avoid Erosion.

3. AI-Capex Complex De-Rating — Reported Monday Chip Casualties Reportedly Included CRDO ↓8.11% ($236.88), MRVL ↓7.75% ($217.53), LRCX ↓5.83% ($329.92), NXPI ↓4.75% ($278.39), AMD ↓4.21% ($534.39), NVDA ↓3.52% ($203.53), and TSM ↓2.89% ($421.58) per Data Drop; NOW Reportedly Bucked the Sleeve at ↑3.30% to $111.26 per Data Drop on Reported AI-Target Raise per Yahoo Coverage in the Data Drop Headlines. For FCI's Growth-Hybrid sleeve, the reported single-session AI-optical give-back for CRDO and MRVL reportedly reads through to the reported Q2 print cycle for the reported optical and DSP suppliers. Per Yahoo coverage in the data drop headlines, the reported AI-memory boom reportedly is losing steam per LRCX-linked framing, and reported Marvell and Vishay reportedly extended the reported analog-chip re-rating. Per SeekingAlpha coverage in the data drop headlines, the reported ASML framing reportedly remains constructive at current levels — a reported read that reportedly reads across to LRCX. NOW's reported bid Monday reportedly signals the reported software vs. hardware bifurcation reportedly continues; per Yahoo coverage, ServiceNow reportedly is raising its reported AI targets as investors reportedly shift toward software. TSM reports Q2 July 16 per prior brief coverage — a reported binary event for the reported AI-chip complex two sessions ahead. The physical world matters.

4. Energy Sleeve Read-Across — Monday Reportedly Delivered XLE ↑3.01% Leadership per Data Drop as CVX Closed ↑3.29% at $182.20, OKE ↑2.52% at $92.19, CEG ↑2.46% at $257.57, and NTR ↑3.32% at $67.60 per Data Drop; Per Yahoo Coverage in the Data Drop Headlines, CVX Reportedly Launched an AI Data Center Power Venture and Extended Its Australia Gas Supply — a Reported Confluence of the Energy-Bid and AI-Infrastructure Themes. For FCI's Upstream and Refiner sleeves, the reported Monday USO ↑8.36% and BNO ↑9.13% ETF proxy moves per data drop reportedly reprice the reported crack-spread setup for the reported forward earnings cycle. Per Yahoo coverage cited in the data drop headlines, ONEOK reportedly extended its 30-year dividend growth track record. For the FCI Growth-Hybrid sleeve, CEG's reported bid reportedly reflects the reported U.S. rising-electricity-need framing per Yahoo coverage in the data drop headlines — a reported physical-AI-infrastructure signal that aligns with FCI's core investment thesis. Per Yahoo coverage, LMT reportedly closed at $520.68 (↓0.49% Mon per data drop) as reported program-timeline coverage reportedly noted the reported $100B backlog. Think Like an Owner.

5. Fear & Greed / Levels — The Data Drop Reportedly Returned the Crypto Fallback Value of 22 (Extreme Fear) per Data Drop; Per CLAUDE.md, This Reportedly Signals the CNN Stock-Market Endpoint Failed — The Reported CNN Reading Was 49 (Neutral) as of July 10 per CNN Before the Reported Weekend Escalation; Carson's SPY $645.80 Support Remains Active per levels.json, Well-Removed From Monday's Intraday Range $748.00—$753.91 per Data Drop — No Level Was Reportedly Hit; the Reported UVXY VIX Proxy Closed ↑4.92% at $24.32 per Data Drop. For FCI's framework, the reported VIX-proxy bid alongside the reported gold decline reportedly is the composition signal for Tuesday: reported vol re-rating without a reported traditional safe-haven bid reportedly frames the reported hawkish-Fed transmission that Bloomberg coverage reportedly attributed to reported gold weakness. Carson's SPY $645.80 support reportedly sits ~14% below Monday's reported close — the reported deployment-tranche framework (-25% at 70% of reserves) reportedly is not near activation. Simplicity Over Complexity.

6. Digital Assets Watch — IBIT Reportedly Closed ↓2.79% at $35.22 and ETHA ↓1.18% at $13.37 Monday per Data Drop; Per Benzinga Coverage in the Data Drop Headlines, HOOD Reportedly Weighs a Reported First Credit Card-Backed Bond Sale Worth Up to $500M per Retail Cheers; MARA Reportedly Closed ↓3.25% at $12.19 and HUT ↓2.98% at $99.17 per Data Drop. For FCI's Digital Assets sleeve, the reported spot-ETF give-back reportedly is contained relative to the reported chip-complex de-rating (CRDO ↓8.11%, MRVL ↓7.75%) — a reported signal that reported holder-cohort resilience reportedly continues to differentiate the reported IBIT/ETHA framework from the reported miner exposure. Per Benzinga coverage cited in prior briefs, the reported CLARITY Act cycle reportedly continues; per Coinbase's reported CPO framing in prior briefs, the reported regulatory track reportedly is running against the reported Warren national-security counter-frame. Avoid Erosion.